rushed into their compartment to tell them that there were two spies, a Spaniard and a Belgian, on the train, who were carrying German seals and rubber stamps and false documents. When the train stopped in Paris, LINDEMANS, VERLOOP, and ARNOULD walked up the platform behind these two men. ARNOULD then arrested them and handed them over to a German officer in the station.

Lin interrogated regarding his knowledge of the German spy network, and has added the following information to his Camp 020 Daily Report of 12.11.44.:

Lin is trying to get the Germans to release the information attached at the time to a young man who was very wealthy and LINDEMANS' name was very prominent. LINDEMANS always carried large sums of money and these were obtained either from the German Movement. He has seen LINDEMANS in a single evening.

Lin shadowed LINDEMANS when he kept his hideout underground, so that he could see what LINDEMANS supplied him and GERHARD with money, but he warned them that they were going to get them down, as they were very clever. LINDEMANS had a woman of about 50, whom he had another wearing a red fox coat, also a Russian man and a Belgian woman. LINDEMANS had stamps and seals and forged documents. LINDEMANS and these people were subsequently arrested.

Lin gave the telephone numbers of all the people who were connected with these people to the Germans, so that they could make telephone calls. However, the Germans were working in the telephone exchange and had a fire in the exchange, which destroyed the telephone lines.

Lin does not know whether LINDEMANS gave the Germans the telephone calls, however, that Dr. GERMAN told him that he had been viewed LINDEMANS, that he had been expected to take place at the end of May or the beginning of June. LINDEMANS told them where it was expected to take place.

LINDEMANS

Lin spent some time in Brussels, VERLOOP went to Brussels and also accompanied them. They were traveling in one compartment, while LINDEMANS was in another. During the journey, LINDEMANS rushed into their compartment to tell them that there were two spies, a Spaniard and a Belgian, on the train, who were carrying German seals and rubber stamps and false documents. When the train stopped in Paris, LINDEMANS, VERLOOP, and ARNOULD walked up the platform behind these two men. ARNOULD then arrested them and handed them over to a German officer in the station.

I attach herewith an interrogation report regarding a certain Josef Henri HENRIKSON which has been submitted to us largely because of the man's connection with LINDEMANS. I expect you will think it desirable to have full copies of the report made for your file. If so we should be grateful if you could supply us with 17 copies. Alternatively if you are only making extracts perhaps we could have 17 copies of the extracts which you make. No registry action has yet been taken on this report.

DAILY REPORT

Forwarded with
YP. 17.11.44

on the case of

Cornelia Johannes Antonius VERLOOP

VERLOOP has again been interrogated regarding his knowledge of LINDEMANS & KING KONG's activities, and has added the following information to that already given in Camp 020 Daily Report of 12.11.44:

RECORDED
26 MAY 1952

Although LINDEMANS was trying to get the Germans to release his wife from prison, he was very attached at the time to a young girl called Ely ZWAAN. This girl was very wealthy and LINDEMANS took a lot of money from her. LINDEMANS always carried large sums of money with him, and VERLOOP thinks these were obtained either from Ely ZWAAN or from the Underground Movement. He has seen LINDEMANS spend as much as 7 or 8,000 francs in a single evening.

VERLOOP's job was to shadow LINDEMANS when he kept his appointments with members of the Underground, so that he could see what the people looked like. LINDEMANS supplied him and GERHARD with their names and addresses in advance, but he warned them that they must be very careful about tracking them down, as they were very clever at evading detection. VERLOOP remembers a woman of about 50, whom LINDEMANS met outside a church, and another wearing a red fox coat that he met in a cafe. There was also a Russian man and a Belgian who had all kinds of false German stamps and seals and forged documents. He believes that all these people were subsequently arrested.

LINDEMANS knew the telephone numbers of all the people working for the Allies and he gave these away to the Germans, so that they could make a check on their telephone calls. However, the Underground Movement had an agent working in the telephone exchange who found out about this and staged a fire in the exchange, which interfered with the tapping of the telephone lines.

VERLOOP is unable to say whether LINDEMANS gave the Germans any military information. He recalls, however, that Dr. GERMAN told them on the first evening he interviewed LINDEMANS, that he had been informed that the invasion was to take place at the end of May or the beginning of June. He did not tell them where it was expected to take place or the source of his information.

Visit to Paris with LINDEMANS

After working for a short time in Brussels, VERLOOP went to Paris with LINDEMANS. ARNOULD also accompanied them. They travelled by train, LINDEMANS sitting in one compartment, while VERLOOP and ARNOULD were in another. During the journey, LINDEMANS rushed into their compartment to tell them that there were two spies, a Spaniard and a Belgian, on the train, who were carrying German seals and rubber stamps and false documents. When the train stopped in Paris, LINDEMANS, VERLOOP, and ARNOULD walked up the platform behind these two men. ARNOULD then arrested them and handed them over to a German officer in the station.

They stayed one or two days in Paris, and during this time LINDEMANS denounced several people, among them Jan SMIT (a Dutchman belonging to the Queen's Military Police), the Baron HENSTRA, and a Swiss who manufactured false German documents. ^{FF600,617} THEIR names were all carefully noted by ARNOULD. LINDEMANS also gave the name of Egl. VREIDENBURGH, a woman who had been working for the English for a long time both in Holland and Paris, but she was not arrested until later as LINDEMANS was not yet sure of her exact function in the organisation. There was also another woman in the rue Clichy.

Handwritten mark, possibly initials.

[GERHARD] ^{FF601,712} instructions to LINDEMANS had been not to have anyone arrested until he knew all the details of the route for which they were working. LINDEMANS knew that escapes were organised by the English, the Americans, the Australians, the French and the Brigade Blanche, each using a different route, but he did not know all about them because so many passours were used besides himself. GERHARD gave him permission to penetrate any of these routes in order to learn the whole organisation.

They returned to Brussels via Lille, where LINDEMANS visited one of his children who was being looked after by his wife's parents. He and VERLOOP then went to see VERLOOP's mistress and then went on to Brussels.

Visit to Driebergen.

FF602,060

The next day VERLOOP was told to take LINDEMANS to Driebergen. They went by train to Utrecht, where they were picked up in a car by Willy KUPP and taken to Dr. GERHARD's private house. VERLOOP believed that Dr. VOGLER of IC was there, but he never had a chance to find out as Dr. BOEENS told him that there was no need for him to stay and he returned at once to Utrecht in the same car.

The interrogation of Sgt. C. GOORDEN, LINDEMANS' chauffeur, in the Field on 7.11.44, shows that about 12.10.44, LINDEMANS paid a visit to Paris to see a Dutchman called Maurice de VOS. GOORDEN believed this man worked in Paris Radio and transmitted messages to the U.K. He described him as 1.65 m in height, slim, long thin face, black hair, brown eyes, clean shaven, long thin nose, Jewish appearance.

LINDEMANS has already mentioned this man but only as a 1943 contact assisting him in the passing of escapers from Holland through Paris. ~~He says~~ LINDEMANS says of De VOS that he lived at Rue de Pontneuf 61 (?) off the Champs Elysees. In view of the fact that LINDEMANS has not mentioned any visit to this man in October of this year it may be that there is significance in the visit and we think that enquiries ought to be made in Paris with a view to locating Maurice de VOS and finding out for what purpose LINDEMANS then visited him.

I attach herewith a report received from the Field regarding the interrogation of Sgt. C. GOORDEN, LINDEMANS' chauffeur. This document indicates that LINDEMANS has not disclosed to us various journeys which he made after the beginning of October of this year. It would be interesting to know the purpose of the visit to Paris and the visits to St. QUENTIN

GOORDEN in fact arrived at the L.R.C. in June 1943. He was subsequently enlisted by S.O.E. The incident which has been mentioned in which there was a suggested indiscretion by GOORDEN was subsequently investigated and found to have no substance whatsoever.

Would you be good enough to return the documents when you have finished with it.

Interrogation of [Sgt. C. GOORDEN] 7 Nov 44.

1. Born 17 May 1919 at BREDA. Source escaped from Holland and reached UK in 1942.
2. He eventually left UK and arrived in AMIENS 23 Sep, and as he worked in LONDON for Col. SOMERS, eventually reported to Capt de JOINGH.
3. there was no work for him, nor were the Princess Irene Bde able to use his services. He accordingly attached himself to a signals capt (name unknown) at EINDHOVEN.
4. He then suggested that, as he knew all the BREDA area, he would be more use to Cdn Army than to the unknown signals officer, and accordingly betook himself to ANTWERP.
5. There he met King Kong on 1/2 Oct and entered into his service as a driver.
6. On Oct 2 he and K.K. took two Dutchmen to MOLL to launch them on a mission to TILBURG.
7. On 3 Oct they returned to ANTWERP and on 4 Oct reported to H.R.H.'s HQ, returning the same day to ANTWERP.
8. About 12 Oct K.K. paid a visit to PARIS to see a Dutchman called Maurice De Vos, who, source believed, worked for Paris radio. De Vos is said to have transmitted messages to U.K. His address is not known, but source thinks he could find it, but his description is as follows:-

Height 1.65m, slim, long narrow face, black hair, brown eyes, clean shaven, long thin nose, Jewish appearance.
9. Their next mission (which we know from another source was about 20 Oct), consisted of taking two agents with transmitters and codes from EINDHOVEN and passing them through the lines to set them on their way to BERGEN op ZOOM. This party was joined at the last moment by two other Dutchmen. The first two agents eventually returned and were, source believes, interrogated at H.R.H.'s HQ in BRUSSELS.
10. About 24 Oct a third operation was undertaken; Two Dutchmen were taken from prison in ANTWERP, where they were being detained by the WITTE BRIGADE and put through the lines near TURNHOUT, with instructions to go to BREDA and return to TILBURG.
11. During the period 1 Oct until his arrest K.K. visited ST. QUENTIN about four times, to see a man whom he used as a cover address and who, source believes, was part of K.K.'s escape line. He also visited his wife in LILLE.

Dear Stamp,

LIEBHART, Christiana Antholius.

BROWN LEATHER BRIEF CASE marked B.

The thirteen white tablets contained in an envelope were identified as containing a member of the group of drugs known as Sulphonamides, similar to Sulphathiazole, and can be used for secret writing with a fair degree of security. While we have not had evidence of the use of these drugs so far for this purpose, the frequency with which they are being met warrants close inspection, although these compounds are now widely used in the treatment of general infections of the streptococcal type.

The brown leather wallet was examined and a small piece of paper with writing in ink was found tucked under a flap, and may have intelligence value. The wallet was otherwise innocent. The piece of paper is enclosed with the report.

A silk tie, two pairs of socks, hand towel and handkerchief were scrutinised for duffs and where likely for concealment and tested for impregnation with material for secret writing, the handkerchief being also tested for likely forms of secret writing, all without result.

A white metal self-propelling graphite pencil was free from duffs and concealment and was of no interest for secret writing.

The two fully loaded automatic revolver magazines, a new, apparently unused fountain pen, wooden handled gas brush, torn part of airborne mask, broken comb, stop watch in metal case marked 381111, box compass and two leather wallets were all examined but revealed nothing unusual or suspicious.

A 35 mm Kodak camera with the cap loose on the lens and containing no film or spools was searched for duffs and concealment, but nothing was found.

Envelopes.

One of the two metal studs had a dark grey deposit on the top which was found to consist mainly of sugar contaminated with dirt and of no interest.

The other stud, bullets, boiled sweet and wrapping, graphite pencil and piece of wire gauze revealed no unusual features and were genuine. The pencil, which was of no use for secret writing, was destroyed in the search.

WHITE LEATHER marked 1.

The pair of brown shoes with laces was examined visually, revealing nothing unusual, but a portion of the upper of the left shoe appeared suspicious in the X-ray and on unstrapping a lead shot was found embedded. As no evidence could be found of the shoe having been penetrated, it is assumed that the animal from which the hide was made had been hit with the pellet. No suspicion is attached to this. The shoes were not further damaged in the search.

The clothing, including a camouflaged airborne mask, khaki shirt and battle dress with shoulder flash "HERO GUARD", cotton shorts, vest and pair of braces were scrutinised for duffs and other suspicious features, the pair of cotton socks and pair of woollen socks with elastic tops being also tested for impregnation, all without result.

The contents, consisting of a cigarette end, piece of graphite pencil, nail, three brass stars and a brass crown, piece of black boot lace, two pieces of wood and a part metal tin opener were all examined, the lace being also tested for impregnation with material for secret writing. Nothing of interest was found. The piece of pencil was destroyed during the process.

The property is now returned under separate cover.

15th November 1944.

Dear John,

LINDEMANS @ KING KONG

Thank you for your letter of 13.11.44 regarding the above-named and for the report attached thereto.

It seems probable that the reference to the suspicious girl and the heavy drinking in the mysterious message which you received from the Field on 16.5.44 related to LINDEMANS and not to HENRIKUS. LINDEMANS has told us that in May 1944 in Rotterdam (LINDEMANS' recollection for dates is highly inaccurate) he was shot through the chest in a raid carried out by the Gestapo. He was taken by the Dutch Police to a hospital and later was contacted by an unknown German who told him that he must go on working for the German I.S. and instructed him to get in touch with all his friends through his nurse to fix up his escape from hospital. This plan was duly arranged with the full knowledge of the Germans and in fact was carried out. Many of LINDEMANS' friends were arrested. It may be that HENRIKUS was arrested and possibly the message of 16.5.44 was sent at a time when your agent had come under control. Would you like us to have LINDEMANS questioned regarding this agent whose name we do not appear to have or would you prefer nothing to be said on the matter?

So far as regards the second heading in the report attached to your letter, we think it is clear that the identity documents which SCHARRER was in a position to provide and was providing for would be escapers were obtained from Hauptsturmfuehrer DE GRAAF of the Sicherheitsdienst in Toulouse. DE GRAAF or CHASSE stated at the I.R.C. that the documents were in fact issued from the office of the S.D. at Toulouse and DE GRAAF told us that LEWIS was working for Hauptsturmfuehrer of ST. 64 the S.D. in Toulouse with other Dutchmen. When LINDEMANS was arrested it was assumed here that he had been working for the Germans over a long period and that he had probably been responsible for the betrayal of the escape route with which he was connected. On the other hand no evidence to this effect has been obtained in the course of the interrogation and both LINDEMANN and VERLOOP have given a circumstantial account of LINDEMANN'S recruitment for the Abwehr which happened, at the earliest, after January 1944. It therefore looks very much as though, despite the very suspicious circumstances, LINDEMANN was not working for the Germans at the time De GRAAF came out of occupied territory. The astonishing feature of the business is that De GRAAF seemed to have no doubt whatever that LARRY-BALL was working for the Germans whereas LINDEMANN who was in close touch with LARRY-BALL, apparently had no such suspicion.

Mr. Noble - War Room

I attach herewith a statement received from DAMEN which may be of interest and importance. It seems plain that LUIDEMANS' brother Jan of Rodenryschlan, Rotterdam, is at least known to the Abwehr. It seems probable from what DAMEN says that Jan is working for the other side, on the other hand we have seen so much information recently showing the way in which Abteilung III in Holland is willing to let patriots run with a view to making a big coup, & it is possible that Jan is merely an innocent stooge.

Dear John,

DAMEN has told us that early in June 1944 he was asked by HAGER at the Abwehr Office in Utrecht to take an envelope containing money and food coupons to a certain man. The name and address on the envelope was Jan LINDEMANS (?), Rodenrijchelaan. (DAMEN does not remember the number). LINDEMANS when interrogated about his brother JAN said that his address is Rodenrijchelaan Rotterdam. LINDEMANS states that his brother is aged 38 and he has given a description of him which is very similar to DAMEN's description of the man to whom he delivered the letter, viz, curly hair, age about 35, clean-shaven and of medium height.

LINDEMANS states that Jan LINDEMANS works for the resistance but strenuously denies that he has at any time been connected with the German Intelligence Service.

I should be most grateful for any information which you may have regarding Jan LINDEMANS.

Yours sincerely,

Christiaan LINDEMANN @ KING KONG.

1. On 16.5.44 a message was received from one of our agents in the field in HOLLAND, as follows :-

"9 NR NINE HENDRIKUS DOES NOT FOLLOW UP MY INSTRUCTIONS HAS AGAINST STRICT ORDERS MIXED WITH KING KONG AND THROUGH HIM BOUGHT D'LOU-LAWN ADDRESS HE ALSO HAS AWAY OUT WITH SUSPICIOUS GIRL COMING HOME PARALYTIC DRUNK NO CONTACT WITH HIM FRO TMN UAYS NOTHING HEARD OF POSSIBLY ARREST KINGKONG REPEAT KING KONG ON NINE MAR SHIT DOWN AND ARRESTED RATHER BEING RESCUE FROM HOSPITAL K ONE TRYING NO CASUALTIES."

This telegram presents several difficulties as follows :-

KING KONG is CHRISTIAAN LINDEMAN, who was formerly living in ROTTERDAM and has lately been interested in the somewhat bogus escape line with LOWEY BOLD in PARIS (see 2(a) below); it is, of course, possible that he has returned to HOLLAND.

LINDEMANN's wife is GILOU LETOURE. It may, therefore, be that the LINDEMANs have returned to HOLLAND and that HENDRIKUS, who is PINGPONG (instructor to PARD with C.S.6) has contacted them, upon which assumption the telegram may be interpreted as reading in the relative part "Mixed with KINGKONG and through him brought Gilou to own address." There are, however, certain difficulties in this interpretation; the group TMN might possibly be "Ten", but much more likely "Ten", which latter figure would fit in with the SWADE telegram of the 13th May, from which it is clear that HENDRIKUS must have been missing for more than two days; if, however, PARD has had no contact with PINGPONG for 10 days, it is a little difficult to see how he could know about the suspicious girl and the heavy drinking. The last part of the telegram is also not at all clear, since there are two places in which it would be possible to insert a STOP, in each case giving a different interpretation. It may be that the STOP should come after the word "Arrest", in which case the telegram would read ".... No contact with him for 10 days nothing heard of possible arrest. KINGKONG on 9th December shot down and arrested....." in which case the arrest would apply to HENDRIKUS. On the other hand the STOP might come after the word "days", in which case the arrest would apply to KING KONG and the subsequent piece would be a relay of a current story. In any event, the shooting, arrest and attempted rescue from hospital are a little obscure, since, due to corruption, it is not at all clear whether KING KONG was shot down and arrested while attempting a rescue, or that he was shot down and arrested and a rescue has been attempted and gone wrong. The latter is probably the explanation. In any event, this message is extremely suspect because PINGPONG is HENDRIKUS is a dutchman whose training name was [REDACTED] and under no circumstances could he be thought to be the sort of man who, even if suffering from a complete loss of nerve, would be likely to behave in the manner indicated. He was trained quite some time ago and has therefore been under the control of the S.O.E. Country Section for a considerable period, during the whole of which he has behaved extremely quietly; he was married in ENGLAND and is virtually the only dutch student who has not been in the habit of going on parties, and he is quite unique in that he has never asked for more money or an advance of pay.

2. RECENT DEVELOPMENTS OUTSIDE HOLLAND. (i.e. prior to 24.5.44.)

During the course of the last two months a good deal of further information has come to light which has a very distinct bearing upon the situation under review in this paper :-

(a) First of all, the escape organisation in HOLLAND and PARIS with which LINDEMANN @ KING KONG is connected, has succeeded in ex-filtrating quite an appreciable number of bodies. This organisation has admittedly had a fair measure of success, but it is known that it has suffered certain arrests in PARIS, and some other aspects of it have given rise to anxiety. There is possibly no suggestion that it is in any way in contact with the enemy, but at the same time it does appear clear that the organisation is a somewhat haphazard one, and is run more for the subject of turning a dishonest penny than for any other reason. LOWEY BAIL, associate of LINDEMANN in PARIS and member of the escape organisation, is a highly suspicious half-caste, and the contact in HOLLAND is SCHARNER. Intending escapees have to pay over quite large sums of money to SCHARNER in Dutch florins against a future reimbursement by LOWEY BAIL in French francs. This curious procedure has in nearly every case given rise to ill-feeling, since a good deal of the money seems to disappear between the two of them and LOWEY BAIL invariably says that he had never received any notification from SCHARNER, and makes his payments as though they were of an ex-gratia nature.

(b) SCHARNER, as well as being connected with the financial swindle referred to above, is also the source of Sicherheitsdienst papers with which he provides intending escapees. Several of these papers taken from different people have been secured by S.O.E. and submitted for scrutiny. They seem generally to consist of the following documents :-

- (1) Gestapo Identity Card
- (2) Sonderausweis, which allows train travelling in HOLLAND, FRANCE, BELGIUM and GERMANY.
- (5) Grenz Bescheinigung, allowing the holder to cross frontiers without question, and also permitting the carriage of arms.

It is understood that these documents are of such a standard of excellence that it is extremely unlikely that they have been forged. He has also drawn attention to the fact that, although purporting to be issued in different places, they have all been stamped with the same rubber stamp, in which there is a slight flaw in one of the arms of the swastika.

(c) DE GHAAP came out of HOLLAND with Sicherheitsdienst papers provided by SCHARNER, and down LINDEMANN's escape line. Before leaving HOLLAND, DE GHAAP was a very active member of the Security Section of C.S.G. and worked in the Rijksbureau voor Voedselvoorziening in Oorlogstijd (State Office for the Provision of Food in Wartime), which organisation he alleged to be staffed by true patriots, and to do a good deal for the Resistance Movement by the provision of illicit rations. Many of the contacts of WARG are people connected either with this State Department or with the Public Kitchens which are run under its auspices.

(d) SCHRADER is well-known for his escape operations from HOLLAND by means of various motor-boats, but since his own arrival in the U.K. by the same means, he has recently achieved considerable notoriety and it is understood that he is now the subject of fairly wide-spread enquiries on account of his very peculiar activities. It is interesting to note that SCHRADER, when he was in HOLLAND, was also employed by the Rijksbureau voor Voedselvoorziening in Oorlogstijd.

WINKEL states that the last time he heard of LINDEMANS was when he (WINKEL) was attending a reception at the Dutch Legation in Paris on the birthday of the Queen of Holland at the end of August, and met Baron Van HEEMSTRA, who told him that LINDEMANS had been in hospital in Belgium with a bullet wound in the head, but was taken from there by German Green Police.

This was the last that had been heard of LINDEMANS himself. His wife was last heard of when she was arrested in hotel Montholon in Paris, in the early part of March 1944.

They were introduced by Willy (or Jim) van ~~den BERG~~ ^{den BERG}, a former member of the N.S.B. in Holland. The introduction was in order that LINDEMANS might obtain VERLOOP's help, as he was in great trouble.

It then appeared that LINDEMANS' mistress and his brother had both been imprisoned by the Germans for Resistance activities, and that he wished at all costs to obtain their release.

Handwritten initials and date: 12/11/44

In addition, he had been detailed by the Brigade Blanche to kill a German agent named van den BERG. This agent, when in Brussels, visited the Cafe Poi, opposite the Gare du Nord, and LINDEMANS was told to go to this cafe with another man and shoot van den BERG from behind a curtain. LINDEMANS' courage had failed him and he felt he could not kill a man in cold blood.

LINDEMANS, who was in a highly overwrought condition, offered to give the German I.C. all information in his possession about the Resistance Movement in Holland and Belgium, on the condition that his brother and mistress should be released from prison.

VERLOOP went to the Abwehr office in the rue de la Loi and telephoned to his chief, Oberleutnant GERMANS or Dr. GERHARD (N.B. LINDEMANS refers to this man as Dr. GERMANN, but VERLOOP does not know him by this name). Dr. GERHARD summoned VERLOOP to Driebergen, where he went to the Abwehr III office and was received by GERHARD and Oberleutnant WALTER. VERLOOP told them that he had guaranteed the release of LINDEMANS' wife and brother in return for full information on Resistance Movements, and had promised that LINDEMANS himself would not be arrested. GERHARD was delighted with VERLOOP's news and told him to return to Brussels at once. The next day he met LINDEMANS and WIL VAN DER KAMP and told them that the Abwehr chief of Holland and Belgium, DESSA, was arriving the following morning to see LINDEMANS.

GERHARD duly arrived and a rendezvous was arranged for the same evening. VERLOOP took LINDEMANS to a spot behind a hotel near the Jardin Botanique, where at about 21.00 hours they were picked up by a car containing Willy KUPF and a chauffeur, and driven to a house on some high ground outside Brussels (address unknown).

Shortly after their arrival, GERHARD appeared with Oberleutnant WALTER. VERLOOP was present during the whole interview. He states that LINDEMANS was at no time threatened by Dr. GERHARD and that he offered his information freely in exchange for the release of his brother and mistress. He laid on the table a false German Soldbuch, made for him by a Swiss who specialised in false documents. He also showed GERHARD false German seals and stamps and a number of forged laissez-passeports. He also produced 50,000 Spanish pesetas to be used for passing escapees through to Spain. This money he was allowed to retain.

LINDEMANS gave particulars of his work for the Allied cause, and said that he had worked for the English since 1939 and had helped many Allied pilots who had baled out over Holland or escaped from Germany to reach Spain and Switzerland. He showed them a forged Organisation TODT pass stating that he was an official responsible for transporting workmen from Maastricht to France and explained that he had sent escapees along with workmen's parties. LINDEMANS then gave various names of members of the Resistance, the only two which VERLOOP can remember being HYARD and SWANSON.

VERLOOP was subsequently informed by KIESENWITZ at Driebergen that in all 267 persons had been arrested as the result of denunciations by LINDEMANS. VERLOOP states that he does not mean by this that LINDEMANS gave away all these persons himself, but that his in-lal denunciations had led to their arrest in snowball fashion.

LINDEMANS was instructed at this first interview to telephone to various people in the Resistance Group and fix rendezvous with them in cafes, churches, etc. and VERLOOP believes that he did this, being shadowed on these occasions by Willy KUPF and ARNAUD, who would make arrests in certain cases, while leaving some people to go free, who might unconsciously lead them to other contacts. In this way arrests were made in Rotterdam, Leiden, the Hague, Antwerp, Malines, Brussels and Paris.

P.F. 601, 712

VERLOOF states that on a later occasion LINDEMANS was shot in the chest at The Hague or Rotterdam by a member of the S.D. who was unaware of his work for the Abwehr, and that with the knowledge of GEHARD he was rescued by his friends from hospital, as a result of which VERLOOF believes that more arrests were made by the Germans, and that another attack on Vught prison by members of the Resistance engineered by LINDEMANS resulted in the arrest of 47 more. VERLOOF agrees that he has only second-hand knowledge of these incidents and LINDEMANS himself strenuously denies that he had any connection with the Vught incident or that any arrests were made after his rescue from the hospital, or that at any time he has betrayed British agents.

About ten days after LINDEMANS' first contact with the Abwehr, VERLOOF himself was sent to Holland, and thereafter his information about LINDEMANS was mostly second-hand and supplied by KIESEWITZER of the Driebergen Stelle.

He was told that early in September 1944, LINDEMANS arrived by night in torn clothes at Driebergen and asked to see the chief, [Major KIESEWITZER] and told him that he had come from Eindhoven, where there were a number of British Intelligence personnel, including Captain BAKER, Major FICOW (?) and Sergeant MONTFORT. He also gave KIESEWITZER a report about the dispositions of the British line. VERLOOF does not know how LINDEMANS reached Driebergen, but he is convinced that he came voluntarily.

LINDEMANS was escorted back through the lines the same night or the next morning and was, according to VERLOOF, given another mission (unknown) and told to report back in two or three weeks. LINDEMANS was considered a very reliable agent by Dr. GEHARD.

VERLOOF thinks that LINDEMANS' mind had become deranged by worry about his brother and mistress and that his actions may to some extent be accounted for by this fact.

LINDEMANS' own version of his introduction to the Abwehr and subsequent activities differs in many instances from the above, as will be seen from the Interim Report on his case, which is in course of preparation. He claims that much of the information which he gave to the Germans was deliberately false.

Christian LINDEMANS.

With reference to B.L.D(Mr. Stomp's) memorandum of 8.11.44, LINDEMANS was shown the photograph of de ZITTER and said that this would resemble Van den BERG without his glasses. LINDEMANS had seen this man two or three times in January 1944, at the Cafe Pol in Brussels.

LINDEMANS states at a later date that he was given orders by Baron de BOETSCLAER to kill this man.

LINDEMANS had also received orders from Commandant ANSIAUX to kill a ~~capt. JACKSON~~. The only description of this man that was given to LINDEMANS was that he had one little finger missing, was always accompanied by a blonde woman and a large dog. He was always to be found in the Schears district of Brussels, and de BOETSCLAER would point him out. He sometimes heard JACKSON referred to under the name of ~~ZITTER~~ or ZITTERER.

VERLOOP was also shown this photograph, but states emphatically that it is not that of Van den BERG.

Dutchmen who escaped from Holland with the help of a

Experiences in France and trip back to Holland.
At hotel Montholen WINKEL was introduced to SWAENE Vic, a prominent Dutch underground member who confirmed that the Dutch organisations wanted a man with a knowledge of Spanish in Spain. Arrangements were being made, but before everything could be put in order and WINKEL could start for Spain, they ran short of funds. It was therefore decided that WINKEL should return to Holland to fetch more money, and he went back with two other organisation members, LINDEMANS Chris (now believed to be shot) and FUGLER Walter, a Swiss (now arrested). WINKEL had been introduced to these people in hotel Montholen in Paris.

WINKEL made his way to M. de POURTALES James, living at 40 Rue Barbet de Jouy, Paris, of whom he knew as he was a cousin of Gigi DAENDELS'. From this address he tried to telephone Van VREDENBURGH Anna, another member of SWAENE's organisation, who operated under the alias of "YVONNE". He was unsuccessful in contacting her, but was well received by PCOURTALES, who allowed him to stay the night.

Next morning he returned to Morsang where he met another organisation member, COUTINON: Gerald, and informed him about FURGLER's arrest. On arrival at his hotel he found that all their own and LINDEMAN's luggage had disappeared during the night. He therefore returned to PCOURTALES, where he met YVONNE and asked her advice as to what he should do. She told him that under the circumstances he would do best to lie low in the north of France, and sent him to one of their cover addresses at 948 Ave. Jean Jaures in Ronchin, near Lille. There he would receive further instructions, and be contacted in due course by LINDEMANS, Chris.

A month later LINDEMANS turned up and told him to wait another week but WINKEL never saw him again.

INTERNAL MEMORANDUM

MEMORANDUM

A statement has been received from DAMEN to the following effect.

Early in June, 1944, in the town office of the Abwehr, 92, Maliebaan, Utrecht, HANZER asked DAMEN to go to Rotterdam and to hand an envelope containing money and food coupons to a certain man. HANZER said that on this occasion he was too busy to go himself.

The name and address on the envelope was Jan LINDEMAN (?), Soelen-Kajochlan (DAMEN does not remember the number).

DAMEN went to the house in Rotterdam. The door was opened by a man with curly hair aged about 35, clean-shaven and of medium height, who appeared at first very nervous, but was very pleased when he was given the envelope, which he appeared to have been expecting.

DAMEN saw a woman in the hall whom he took to be his wife.

LINDEMAN was re-interrogated about his brother JAN. He states that his address is Soelen-Kajochlan, Rotterdam. He is aged 38 and the description of him is very similar to DAMEN's. LINDEMAN states that JAN works for a Dutch company the DIENST (Dienstverdrag), engaged in the rebuilding of Rotterdam.

He says that his brother works for the Resistance, and though JAN has made money in the Black Market, he strenuously denies that he has been at any time connected with the German I.S.

LUDLOW.

As spoken, I return the attached documents sent from Camp 020 under cover of your memorandum of the 10th November.

Although LUDLOW asserts that none of these papers are his property, which assertion may or may not be correct, the fact of the matter is that as far as can be ascertained from the reports at our disposal the documents in question were found in his possession, or together with his admitted property. In these circumstances it is felt that they should be retained with the rest of the property sent over with the body, and returned with it in due course.

It is right in cases of this kind to draw our attention to any articles the ownership of which the prisoner repudiates, but unless and until we ask for them to be forwarded to Head Office it is considered that they should be retained.
