INTERNAL MEMORANDUM

From Major Hughes

To Colonel Stephens

GISKES/HUNTEMANN

With reference to Mr. Wilson's memo to Colonel Stephens dated 1st June 1945:

1. HAUSWALD

GISKES does not know if HAUSWALD himself was in the habit of going to Spain or whether he sent agents to that country: he is quite certain that the branches of Abt. I Ast Niederlande did have connections with that country. SCHAEFER, I Wi, travelled frequently to Spain.

2. SCHENKELWALD - SCHENKOWITZ

3. Major MOERING

MOERING was never with B.d.S. Holland.

4. BUECHLI

This man is unknown personally to either GISKES or HUNTEMANN; he was employed at one time at the Devisenschutzkommando in Amsterdam where STADLER was also employed. STADLER probably at this time was handling BUECHLI.

5. Graf KREUZ

KREUZ was later with Leitstelle III West and was last seen by GISKES in February 1944 in Paris: the latter does not know if KREUZ was ever in Bad Ems. KREUZ was not a W/T technician, but according to GISKES speaks perfect French and English.

6. [Hote. Dr. GROSSE] Pf. 602, 384. K/W GROSSE, DA Hauptmann Wilhelm
Pf 602, 389.

GROSSE is a member of the Swiss German Journalists Association. He had constantly stated that on the defeat of Germany he would go to Switzerland to reconstitute his fortunes. It is possible that GROSSE, after leaving FAK 307 did manage to get a mission from Y.R.S.H.A. to go to Switzerland but GISKES is quite certain that he would have used it only for the purpose of getting to that country. He is quite certain that he would have made no attempt to carry it out.

7. BOEHLER

BOEHLER is almost certainly identical with BOEHLER @ BORSIG.

8. [PLATE O PEETERS] Pf. 601.073. id/w PLATE @ PEETERS DA (Munich) c
RIEGER, DA Pf 601.073. Spd 2715.

This man, an ex-member of the Kripo was with III.F Ast Brussels and then attached to FAT 363. He and SCHELLEWALD had many dealings with the Zentral Vernehmungsstelle in Bonn. This office was under the I/W administration of Wehrkreis 6 and was principally engaged in the interrogation of escaped Allied I/Ws. PLATE appeared to be very anti-Nazi. His wife lives in Hachenburg, Westerwald. SCHELLEWALD can supply more information on this man. GISKES found him useful owing to his connections with the Stapo.

BS/KOR
2/1/45

With reference to Mr. Wilson's memo to Colonel Stephens dated 18.7.45:

Van der REYDEN X NI

To the best of GISKES' memory Van der REYDEN was arrested in January 1942. GISKES saw him in the S.D. prison in Scheveningen, probably in January. SCHREYEDER was present and the Leiter III of the Sipo, at that time probably a certain WOLFF. GISKES knows that already at that time when he first saw Van der REYDEN the Funk-Abwehr was in possession of the former's signal plan. He does not know how this was obtained from Van der REYDEN. GISKES heard at this interview that Van der REYDEN was in touch with a doctor in Wassenaar who was already known to the Sipo. The doctor in question was eventually arrested by the Sipo. GISKES cannot remember his name. The whole affair was handled by the Sipo but GISKES had the impression that Van der REYDEN "war nicht sehr hart". He remembers also vaguely that some woman with children, possibly van der REYDEN's wife, was mixed up in the affair. GISKES thinks that the Sipo knew so much about his contacts that they were in a position to put pressure on him.

GISKES/HUNTEMANN

The following information has been given by GISKES and HUNTEMANN:

X
 I. A certain Dr. ? FRANKEIM (no description available) of the A.B.P. Cologne, which moved to Engelskirchen before the fall of the former town, is an authority on false papers, secret inks, etc. He worked principally for the S.D. but, as a favour to KUCHENBECKER, prepared false papers for the Waterloo and Nina missions. KUCHENBECKER knows this man well. FRANKEIM, who, HUNTEMANN thinks, was formerly with the Kripo had no connection with G. Truppen.

NT y 152x/7

HUNTEMANN states that as far as he knows the A.B.P. in Berlin and Copenhagen did not prepare false identity papers, etc., and their chemical sections were only engaged in testing for S/W etc.

II. No G. Truppen were attached to III.F. Kommandos or Truppe but GISKES believes members were attached to Leitstelle III West and I Kommandos.

Dear Captain Paine,

GISKES has provided the following information on a certain STABELE, and I am anxious to check whether this Abwehr officer is known to your organisation. We have no trace of him.

"About the beginning of February 1944, a clandestine W/T transmitter was discovered by R.D.F. in The Hague, and certain already coded messages were found. The text of one was as follows:-

"The head of Military Counter-Espionage in Holland is Lt. Col. GISKES in Driebergen. He was formerly in Paris and is very dangerous. Two of his chief assistants are HANZER and ANNO. This information comes from Oberst STABELE."

STABELE was personally known to GISKES. He was 60 years of age and was directing a military orphanage at Potsdam. He comes from near Bentheim in the Rhineland and was a member of a Protestant Sect which opposed National Socialism. He went to Holland several times during the war to buy food for the orphanage. Several of the officers at Ast-Niederlande knew him well, including Lt. Col. HEMPEL, Leiter III. STABELE had been with Gruppe I at Munster in 1936 and also had a number of friends in Dutch circles.

19 JUL 1945

17 JUL 1945

The Sipo who conducted the investigations, could arrive at no positive conclusion about STANLEY, and enquiries were made at Adv. Abt. III/E-West, at that time under Major MIBRA, and a few months later GISEKES heard that STANLEY had explained that, during his visits, he had had several discussions with friends about GISEKES' activities but denied strenuously that he was connected with Dutch Resistance; enquiries failed to establish any relations between the two."

I wonder whether you have any comments to make on the above incident?

Yours sincerely,

Subject: Oberst Hermann GISKES.

I enclose in duplicate a translation of a statement made by GISKES of Camp 020, concerning his property. GISKES appears to have been most co-operative and I do not for a moment think he is the type of man to make this sort of allegation unless he was sure of the facts.

You will no doubt therefore like to cause enquiries to be made into these allegations. I shall be glad to know the result and, if the property concerned can be recovered, I shall be grateful if it can be sent over here as quickly as possible, so that we can restore it to its rightful owner. None of the property was received at Camp 020 and item No. 1 of the Intelligence Property held at Camp 020 reads as follows:

"Certificate from Military Police Detachment MIG Office of the Provost Marshal, APO, 230, U.S. Army, stating no valuables received from Hermann J. GISKES, No. 2445. Signed: Sgt. S.J. Foley."

It seems clear therefore that the missing property was not passed on with the body after arrest.

1. Please refer to Progress Report of 27.6.45 in this case and to S.I.S' comment which I passed to you on 11.7.45 regarding the Allied agent van der MEYDEN who (probably in 1941) agreed to work for the Sigo in Holland as a double agent, but who achieved no success.

Van der MEYDEN is now under interrogation by S.I.S. representatives in Holland. He has denied the allegation made against him that he worked for the Germans, and S.I.S. are consequently very anxious to have all the details of this case that STICKER or REDFERN can remember.

Would you be good enough to have them questioned on this particular matter.

GIERKE/STANLE

The following is forwarded for what it is worth.
We have no trace here of STANLE.

About the beginning of February 1944, a clandestine V/T transmitter was discovered by R.D.P. in The Hague, and certain already coded messages were found. The text of one was as follows:

'The head of Military Counter-Espionage in Holland is Lt.Col. GIERKE in Driebergen. He was formerly in Berlin and is very dangerous. Two of his chief assistants are HANSEN and KROG. This information comes from Oberst JENSEN.'

STANLE was personally known to GIERKE. He was 60 years of age and was directing a military orphanage at Petzen. He went to Holland several times during the war to buy food for the orphanage. Several of the officers at Petzenkloster knew him well, including Lt.Col. RALPH LEITER III. STANLE had been with Gruppe I at Münster in 1930 and also had a number of friends in Dutch circles.

The Sipo who conducted the investigations, could arrive at no positive conclusion about STANLE, and enquiries were made at Abt. Abt. III/P-West, at that time under Major KREMER, and a few months later GIERKE heard that STANLE had explained that, during his visits, he had had several discussions with friends about GIERKE's activities but denied strenuously that he was connected with Dutch Resistance; enquiries failed to establish any relations between the two.
STANLE, who comes from near Bentheln in the Rhineland, was a former acquaintance of HANSEN, and was, like the latter, a member of a Protestant Sect which opposed National Socialism.

INTERNAL SECURITY

From: Major Hughes

To: Colonel Stephens

AST ARRAS

With reference to B.I.W.'s (Mr. Wilson's) memo of the 11.7.45, the following information has been elicited from GIBBS on the subject of Ast Arras:-

According to GIBBS' recollection, Ast Arras was set up in the winter of 1942/43. It was a small Waffenstellung with small Ausstellungen in West Flanders and Paris. Its special mission was the security of the Secret Weapons, V 1 and V 2, together with their attendant sights, ammunition depots and also relevant units and staffs.

From the beginning until the end of the war, the Officer was Oberstleutnant HEIDENRICH. The second in command was Major SCHNEIDER. The Stelle was administered by Generalleutnant L.V. General der Artillerie HEINRICH was ~~Commander~~ Commander in the summer and autumn of 1944. General Commando L.V. was in charge of the "Vergeltungsstaffel" in the West.

Ast Arras was responsible for all V installations in Holland, Belgium and France. From the Abwehr point of view, as far as GIBBS knows, it was responsible to Abwehr Abt. III P Berlin. In accordance with the decision in January 1944 to form mobile III P units, Ast Arras became a Trupp. GIBBS can no longer remember the actual serial number allotted to Ast Arras, it may have been 356. He is quite certain that it was not 310. In a later order from Leitstelle III West, it was laid down that Trupp 356, when formed, would be under the orders of Ast Arras. The reason for this was quite simple, namely, that HEIDENRICH did not wish to be put under the orders of another Lt.-Col.

This situation continued so that Ast Arras remained quite independent and was not under the orders of Leitstelle III West.

Strict orders were given that anything of interest concerning "Vergeltungswaffen" was to be forwarded immediately to Ast Arras, who took the decision as to future action. All such reports and correspondence were forwarded, using the code name "FORTUNA". Up till August 1944, distribution by Leitstelle III West included a copy to FAK 307 for PAF 356; the copy was forwarded by FAK 307 to Ast Arras. This is all that GIBBS knows about PAF 356.

Headquarters of Gen. Mdo. L.V. A.K. in August 1944 were in a small village about 15 miles south of Bonn. From October until December they were in a Schloss near Alf, Kreis Bonn.

After September 1944, FAK 307 had no dealings of any sort, either with Ast Arras or Trupp 356. The Leitstelle of Ast Arras was probably on the right bank of the Rhine in Cologne during the winter of 1944 and spring of 1945.

About November 1944, GIBBS heard at the Leitstelle III West that all matters concerning V-Waffen had been removed from the command of General HEINRICH. V 2 matters were the responsibility of Reichsfuehrer SS HIMMLER who appointed a special staff to deal with them. GIBBS is unaware of the details.

With reference to B.L.S.'s (Mr. Wilson's) memo. of 30.6.45, HUNTEMANN and GISKES have been shown the photograph of GIERER with the following results:-

HUNTEMANN recognizes the photograph and is almost certain that it is identical with GIERER.

GISKES does not recognize the photograph. (he has never seen GIERER).

Excerpt to Resistance
M.M.

I. Names of Prominent Dutchmen arrested through RIDDERHOF and LINDEMANS.

(a) RIDDERHOF.

A Dutch university professor, middle-aged, living at Zeist (?), whose name GISKES cannot remember, was in the Autumn of 1943 arrested whilst trying to cross into Belgium. RIDDERHOF had reported beforehand that the Professor was being sent by the "Braas van OORD" group in Doorn to England via Spain with information. He travelled on the same route as APOLLO of the "Nordpol" case. On his arrest by the Sipo, it was confirmed that he was in possession of important espionage material.

(b) Christian LINDEMANS.

A Belgian priest (name forgotten), some time in April 1944, came to Rotterdam with a mission from a Belgian Resistance Group in order to hold a conference with a Dutch Escape Organization which was already known. After LINDEMANS had reported on the priest, he was arrested.

other

II. Names of Agents in Holland.

VAN DEN BERG (cover name), domiciled in Amsterdam. Description attached. In 1943 and 1944, was V-Man of IIIf. Handled by Uffz. CHRISTMANN, later by Uffz. BOLDERS.

III. Names of Resistance or Espionage Group Leaders, and how they were arrested.

(a) Admiral QUADT, an O.D. leader, was arrested in 1941 by the Sipo.

(b) A director of the aeronautics factory FOKKER in Amsterdam, name forgotten, was arrested in 1943 by the Sipo during the breaking up of a Resistance and Espionage Group in Amsterdam.

(c) A schoolmaster called JIJTEN was arrested in the Summer of 1943 at Bergen op Zoom as a leader of an espionage group. He was known to IIIf. and Sipo because in the "Nordpol" affair, London gave his name as a contact.

(d) A Dutch reserve G.S. officer (name forgotten) domiciled at The Hague, was, according to the Sipo, arrested in November 1941 as the leader at that time of the O.D.

(e) Capt. ZOOMER; a "Doctor ZOOMER" was, according to a report which reached IIIf. in the Spring of 1942, active in the resistance group and was said to be domiciled in Breda. Details of his activities were not known. According to reports in the Spring of 1943 (from Dutch Resistance circles) ZOOMER had, in the meantime, become chief of the Dutch I.S. in London. He was identified as the Dutch Major ZOOMER, formerly instructor in the Dutch Military Academy in Breda. On the body of an agent found in a shot down A/C in the middle of 1943, among other things, were found a photograph of Major ZOOMER and a micro-photo letter to a relative of his in Holland - a Dutch Burgomaster. The letter was apparently to serve as an introduction for the agent to ZOOMER's relative. According to an unconfirmed report in the Autumn of 1943, ZOOMER was in Holland at that time.

(f) Engineer SCHALJNEMAKERS, who had been employed by the PHILIPPS firm in Breda, and who had been sent by his firm in the Autumn of 1943 to Sweden, was known to be in the Dutch I.S. Details of the source are unknown. In the luggage of an agent who landed by parachute in Holland in November 1943, was found, among other things, a handbill for a film premiere in Stockholm with song words in English, which was taken to be his "poem". Also in the luggage was found a civilian suit which the Sipo found had been made in Eindhoven for SCHWINGEMAKERS. It is not known if he was arrested.

IV. Names of prominent people arrested in Belgium.

In the middle of 1944, the head of the Intelligence Service ZERO was arrested (cover name ROULEAU). The arrest was occasioned by the penetration of the group by the G.P.P. in Brussels. FAP. 362 also had a contact with the ROULEAU Group but it came to nothing. Details of other Abwehr agents in Brussels can only be given by the Truppe who handled them.

V. Information on British I.S., appointments, names of officers, units, agents' schools, instruction and courses.

There was copious information on the above in the files of Leitstelle IIIIF. and FAKs. The Sipo also had a profound knowledge of the subject, especially as regards training of agents in England. Exchanging of information between IIIIF. and the Sipo was exceptional. Information of this nature, in the possession of IIIIF. and later FAKs, and FAKs was passed to Abw. III, Berlin, and later to the Leitstelle III-West fuer Frontaufklarung. Abw. III, Berlin and later III-West correlated the information received, and issued from time to time, summaries regarding new information, and full charts of the British I.S. These works of reference were always available, and consequently, neither HUBERMANN nor GISKER carried much in their heads.

S.O.E. was known to be the organisers of secret action (secret operations executive, secret overseas expeditions). Among others, were the following sections - Dutch, French, Belgian, Norwegian, Spanish, Italian, and probably German. The work of the sections was training, equipment and the despatch of agents to their particular countries on sabotage missions, and the creating, arming and leading of sabotage and Resistance groups. The following names in the Dutch Section are remembered: - Lt. Col. BLUNT and his Secretary, Miss BOMB, also his successor, Major BINGHAM; also the name of Lt. KNIGHT.

About Schools, the following are remembered: Patriotic Schools (vetting), Parachute School at Ringway, and a sabotage school on a small island in Scotland. W/T and cypher school in London. The Luftwaffe knew two airfields in England from whence agents were despatched.

The R.D.F. service (Fluko-Horchdienst) of the Luftwaffe knew some of the call-signs of the A/C which carried agents. From the interception of this traffic before the aeroplane started (it is believed during practice flights in the afternoon before a mission) the operation of the night often became known. The Fluko-Horchdienst of the Luftwaffe had special instructions to report on low-flying A/C and especially those cruising in certain areas. The combination of the information received from the Funkhorch- and the Fluko-Horchdienst enabled the areas to be established in which regular parachuting A/C operated, and thus gave a picture of the parachute operations which had been carried out. At the H.Q. of the Feld and Oberfeldkommandanturen and in some cases of Ortskommandanturen and Flukohauptstellen, motorised columns were kept alert for action where parachute operations had been observed, and could with certainty be presumed to have taken place. The results, however, were meagre for the following reasons. The alert was given too late, reports on the locality of the operation were too inaccurate, lack of petrol, too great a distance to cover to reach the locality of the operation. Only one case where these columns succeeded is known, namely, in France in the Autumn of 1943 (? near Chartres) which resulted in the arrest of several agents in a car who had just left the dropping ground.

2. Allied Agents arrested in Holland not connected with Nordpol.

Early 1941, a Dutch naval cadet whose name may have been TER BARK or LAAK who

Sometime later, VAN DER REYDEL, agreed to act as a double agent, was played by the Sipo without success.

DE JONGE (leader)) RAEMA (W/T))

Were arrested by Sipo about May or June 1943. They had arrived by M.T.B. at the beginning of 1943 and had landed near Rotterdam. Their mission was purely espionage, and I.I.F. with RAEMA's assistance tried to establish contact. London must, however, have been aware of what was happening since, after several schedules, the traffic stopped.

OCCIX (W/T)

Was caught by R.D.F. of the Orpo on this Monday, 1942.

ALIAS (W/T)

Dull sign F.A.O. Dutch cadet or sub-lieutenant. Worked with success for a long time in Holland. All the efforts of the Orpo and Sipo were frustrated by his caution and skill. Was arrested in a trap set by the Sipo in the house of his girl friend in The Hague. He did not give any information about his mission or the other members of his group and next to TACONIS was the best and most valuable agent whose London sent to Holland and who fell into German hands.

NIERKIER (W/T)

Was arrested by the Sipo in Amsterdam after his address had become known through the Nordpol traffic. He had for several months frustrated the efforts of the Orpo (R.D.F. and shadowing) who had brought special equipment to Holland for this purpose.

* First Group
(names no longer known)

Parachuted in Sept./Oct. 1943 near Graves or Nijmegen. The drop took place in the early evening when it was still quite light, close to a road where there were a lot of people so that the agents, who fell in a garden and on a roof, had to flee immediately, leaving W/T set, codes and a case full of their personal effects.

* Second Group
(names no longer known)

Landed Oct./Nov. 1943 near Graves. They were apparently expected by contacts of the First Group (see above) who helped them to hide their equipment in a neighbouring farm. In some way, however, troops in the neighbourhood got to hear of this and, without informing the Abwehrstelle or Sipo, occupied the farm. When later the agents returned to fetch their equipment, there was a fight, one being shot whilst the other escaped. One of these agents may have been a certain SCHRIJNMAKER (Phillips factory, Eindhoven) as his name was marked on the clothes found.

34a

HEINZ I, II, III, IV.

A group of agents arrested by the Sipo about Feb./March 1944 after HEINZ I and II had been captured in Amsterdam on consecutive days whilst transmitting. Arrests were due to R.D.P. The Sipo tried to play them back (the Sipo "Agent" affair), but London closed the traffic after several weeks with a message referring to the last message sent by III.P in the Nordpol case.

BERGMANN

was found dead in a shot down aircraft in the Zoldersee some time in the summer of 1943; had a large sum of foreign money and a letter of introduction from Capt. SOMER to a certain Bergmeister in Holland. His companion saved himself on a Dutch ship and escaped.

BERGMANN now states that he thinks that these two groups were the same as the HEINZ I, II, III and IV group.

3. GISEKES' Knowledge of British Intelligence Services

Abwehr Abt. III and later Leitstelle III West were in possession of a great deal of information and details of the training, personalities, etc. of these services. As these books of reference were available, GISEKES did not bother to keep such information in his head, and therefore what he can give here is scrappy.

Exchange of information between the Sipo and III.F did not take place except occasionally, but GISEKES does know that the Sipo had a great deal of information on agents' schools in the U.K.

Names of Personalities in S.O.E.

The only names recalled by GISEKES are Lieut. Col. BLUNT and his successor Major BINGHAM, Miss BOND and Lieut. KNIGHT.

Schools known to GISEKES

- a) Patriotic School (for vetting)
- b) Parachute school in Ringway (four jumps, one by night)
- c) Sabotage school in a small island off Scotland
- d) S/T and cipher school in London.

The Luftwaffe knew of two airfields from which aircraft carrying agents used to leave the U.K.

Funk-Horchdienst and Fluko-Horchdienst

The Funk-Horchdienst knew some of the call signs of aircraft carrying agents to the Continent. According to GISEKES trial flights were made in the afternoon prior to the operation of that night, and it was in many cases possible to intercept traffic between the aircraft and its controlling station. When this traffic was reported to GISEKES, he concluded, and was generally right, that an operation would take place that night.

practice

The Fluko-Horchdienst were given special orders to plot the courses of single low-flying aeroplanes, and in this way from their reports GISEKES was able to get a general picture of the scope of dropping operations.

4. Double Play and Spiekmateriel

Once contact had been made between III.F and an Allied Intelligence Service, authority for maintaining this contact had to be given by Abwehr Abt. III Berlin. Information was divided into four classes:-

a) Spiekmateriel

Spiekmateriel, i.e. a stock of information which was kept always ready and as far as possible up to date for passing to the Allies, was supplied either by OKW West or Abt. III.D, which supplied information on Germany of a political, military or economic nature.

b) Normal Routine Traffic

GISEKES had a free hand for the conduct of this and no authority was required from III.D, but at the end of each month a copy of all signals despatches recorded was sent to Abwehr Abt. III Berlin.

c) Answers to Specific Enquiries

All enquiries from the Allies had to be reported immediately to Abt. III. GISKES was given authority to prepare drafts for the relevant answers. These drafts were first submitted to the Headquarters concerned for their approval and then to III.D. Information asked for on Germany was invariably supplied by III.D.

d) Deception

The Intelligence branches of the highest service authorities in the occupied countries concerned could pass to the relevant Abt information for deception purposes, but in such cases, the onus of informing III.D was on the originator, i.e. Intelligence branch of the service concerned.

5. Referat III.D.

A small section of the OKW at Berlin (Tirpitzufer), consisting of the Leiter, Oberst SCHAEFER, one technical assistant and a woman secretary.

With the absorption of the Abwehr by RSHA, III.D lost all significance and Spielmaterial of all descriptions was distributed entirely by the 1c branch of the Oberkommando der West, and later Leitstelle III West.

GISKES states that the whole policy of Spielmaterial and Deception was never thoroughly clarified and with the absorption of III.D by the RSHA, general confusion seemed to reign.

One Source of Spielmaterial

GISKES states that genuine seized espionage material was always a good source. The Dutch and Belgian Intelligence Services were in the habit of forwarding material in triplicate by three different means and if it could be established that copies of the seized material had already been sent through other channels, the seized material, even if correct, was passed through a German-controlled channel to inspire confidence.

The interrogation at Camp 020 of GISKES and HUNTEMANN is progressing, and before producing an Interim Report the interrogating officers are anxious to have detailed questionnaires to put to these two characters, both of whom are talking freely. You have already received a Progress Report on GISKES.

I am now enclosing the Field report on HUNTEMANN, and various preliminary reports on both men, and would very much appreciate the comments of your F sections on these, as well as any suggestions as to specific matters on which they would like the two men questioned further. For instance, are any S.I.S. agents still unaccounted for?

BLEICHER & VERBEEK is also at Camp 020. His interrogation is in its initial stages. Are there any special points to be cleared up in connection with S.I.S. agents who are known to have been in contact with, or to have worked for, BLEICHER?
