As the completion of the interrogation of GISKES and HUNTMANN at Camp 620 and the preparation of Interim reports is likely to take some time I am departing from the usual practice and am sending you a Progress report in duplicate which you may find of interest.

In particular I draw your attention to the reference to Stelle "F" in Appendix III page VIII. You may also find some leads to help in the rounding up of some members of III F in Holland, particularly Appendix III part (a) No. 26, 31 and 22, and Appendix III (b) No. 1. The references to LINDMANN in Appendix IV are extremely interesting and suggest that he had been even more active in the German interests than had been realised. I leave it to you whether you think it is now worthwhile trying to follow up further what access LINDMANN had to operational information.

PROGRESS REPORT

In the case of

Hermann G I S K E S.

5. 6. 45.

Investigation of this case commenced on 30th May 1945. GISKES has been an active Abwehr III officer since the Autumn of 1938, and the case is of such proportions that, up to the present, it has only been possible to skirt the fringes in very general terms. One aspect of the case, linked with HUNTERMAN, and concerning the 'Nordpol' affair in itself requires special investigation, for which purpose S.O.E. has supplied the brief. It has not yet been possible to check the information which GISKES is supplying, and with this reservation, progress to date is as follows: -

GISKES, who by profession was connected with the tobacco trade, was put in touch with Ast-Hamburg in September 1938 by Major FELDMANN. His application for employment with the Abwehr was accepted in November 1938, and he commenced duties with effect from January 1939, under Hptm. Dr. URCKER of Referat IIIc 1, Ast-Hamburg, in the zone covered by General Kdo 10. IIIc 1 dealt with reports covering General Kdo. 10 zone, supplied mostly through official channels by the civilian population. There was constant liaison with Major FELDMANN of Referat IIIf, whose main preoccupation at that time was the breaking down of English Secret Service organisations in Holland. Dating back to this period, GISKES recalls the following events in which he participated under orders from FELDMANN: -

- 1) A man of about 50 years of age who was set up in The Hague by IIIf to observe the English Stelle. He lived in The Hague and in the Summer of 1939 was put under Ast-Muenster as Ast-Hamburg at that time handed over the running of Holland to Muenster. I received orders to go to Holland to obtain from him 2,500 Dutch florins which he was holding as an advance of pay. I could not get the sum and left after two days without results, after having introduced him to Major von ROSENBERG of Ast-Muenster, IIIf, who was to be in charge of him. We heard later from Muenster that he had placed himself at the disposal of the English Stelle in The Hague.
- 2) A certain JANSSEN, living at Nimwegen where he had a post-box belonging to Referat IIIf Hamburg. He was, as far as I can remember, also an agent of the English Stelle in The Hague.

after the case was cleared up.

The outbreak of war found GISKES attached to Ast-Muenster, where he was employed in forming and reorganising Abwehr III sections. January 1940, in conjunction with Hptm. CHRISTIANSEN, GISKES ran Referat IIIc. In this connection, he was employed to a certain extent with CHRISTIANSEN in clearing up a French Intelligence Service in Copenhagen, which was run through the French Commercial Attache's office. GISKES visited Copenhagen in May 1940 to recover Ast funds which an Ast employee had embezzled. At the end of May 1940, he visited Milan to see one FUERSTENAU with whom a female IIIc agent of the Ast was living. The agent's name was RIEKE and she brought information about an English Intelligence centre in Leghorn, for which she was well paid. Another reason for GISKES' visit was the fact that information had been received from the German Consul in Genoa to the effect that a certain MEYER, who had arrived there, with family from England, had applied to FEIDMANN for assistance. In the result, GISKES managed to assist MEYER in returning to Germany, after overcoming passport difficulties, and this man had then the intention of studying wireless. GISKES claims that he has no idea what eventually became of the man.

Mid-June 1940, GISKES was transferred to Ast-Paris to take over the duties of Referat IIIc 2 and remained there until August 1941. This section was responsible for all suspect spy cases in the greater Paris area and the Departments of Seine and Seine/Oise. Cases outside this area were passed on to the appropriate IIIc Stelle. On the average, the Stalls comprised 6/8 officers or Sonderfuehrer, with about 6 N.C.O.s as Abwehr assistants, and clerks, orderlies, drivers, etc. As part of Ast-Paris, the Hotel Lutetia was used for offices. For personnel, see APPENDIX I.

In a written report, GISKES states: -

" The clearing up of suspicious cases that became known were almost always attended to by V-Men of various kinds stationed in Paris; they were under instructions from G.P.F. officials, Sipo officials, and people from the Abwehr. My officers and Abwehr assistants had, almost without exception, one or several such contacts. These were, in the main, not completely trustworthy, working for money or other advantages and sometimes moved from one German Dienststelle to the other. I refused in all cases to make personal acquaintance with such people, and can therefore not assist in their identification.

The Mayor of a small suburb (Montmerency?) gave good information of a general political nature at the time. Also a Reichsdeutscher called KRAUS, who was busy in Paris at the time, had good connections with French people and brought some good reports. Of the very numerous, but for the most part unimportant, suspicious cases, I can recall a few. For instance, the case of Mrs. DEEGAN of the U.S.A. Embassy in Paris. With the help of the Embassy secretaries, she had assisted English soldiers who were in flight in civilian clothes through Paris. These soldiers, or officers, were able to remain for longer periods in Paris before they were caught. They were tried in all cases as prisoners-of-war, and sent to prisoner-of-war camps. Mrs. DEEGAN and two secretaries of the Embassy were obliged to leave Paris after the case was cleared up.

" At the same time a case cleared up by Referat IIIf concerned an English Intelligence agent in the U.S.A. Embassy. Several spy cases were handed over to Referat IIIf at the time I left Paris. I recall the name of a Marquis D'HARCOURE. I do not know anything about the result of this case. "

Concerning KRAUS, GISKES will be interrogated in detail. Meantime, his statement on the man is attached at APPENDIX II.

In August 1941, GISKES was transferred to IIIf Ant-Niederlande, and his former duties with Ant-Paris were handed over to Major FEHL. Between this date and the end of the year, GISKES was mainly preoccupied in reorganising the IIIf section. In the Spring of 1942, the British W/T agent, LAUWERS, was apprehended, turned round, and played back. His arrest was brought about entirely by information supplied by one RIDDERHOF to Uffz. KUP of IIIf.

Sub-agents of RIDDERHOF were: -

- GRAAN
- VAN DEN BERG (unwittingly)
- BIERLIJN (unwittingly)

(For descriptions, see APPENDIX III (b) Ant-Niederlande agents.)
S.D. agents:

- SLACHTER
- POCS.

(for descriptions, see APPENDIX V.)

This was the start of the 'Nordpol' affair, which continued until the Autumn of 1943. In a statement, GISKES has written the following: -

" This modus operandi made it possible to continue the game until first three, then two of the 'Nordpol' prisoners escaped from Sipo detention, in the Autumn of 1943, and the game thereby became blown to the enemy. This led to a severe conflict, with a corresponding sharp exchange of letters, between C-in-C Holland and the Hoehere S.S. and Polizeifuehrer. The last of these letters from the Hoehere S.S. and Polizeifuehrer to the C-in-C Holland culminated in the suggestion that the Abwehr officer responsible for the affair, namely myself, was to blame for the fact that the matter had become blown to the enemy; "owing to the fact that, up to the present, he has obstructed sentence being passed on the prisoners." This exchange of correspondence took place at the end of December 1943 or beginning of January 1944. The continuation of my work in Holland was then, for all practical purposes, at an end and I came to the conclusion that the S.D. intended to have me locked up and disposed of in some manner. Help came to me in the middle of January 1944 when the creation of FAKs and PATs from former IIIf Dienststellen was ordered. According to this order, I had to form FAK 307, which was to be a type of regimental unit and not a Dienststelle. Brussels had been selected as the H.Q. of this FAK. With this order in my pocket I was able to cut away from Holland and as a Truppenkommandeur, was no longer under suspicion of the RSHA and dependent on its satellites in Holland. The remaining sections

"of the military Abwehrstellen, including Ast-Niederlande, were taken over between the beginning and middle of 1944 by the Sicherheits-polizei, and the officers etc. so long as they were agreeable to the ABHA, whether they wanted to or not, were put under command of the C.O. of the local Sipo."

Personnel of the Sipo, known to GIBBS are: -

1. C.O. of the Sipo and S.D. in Holland during 1942 and 1943 - Sturmbannfuhrer, latterly Brigadefuhrer HARSTER. From the Autumn of 1943 onwards, his successor was S.S. Brigadefuhrer KALMANN.
2. Leiter of Abtg. III for the whole Dutch area run by the Stelle in The Hague during 1943 and 1944 was S.S. Obersturmbannfuhrer DEFFNER.
3. Leiter of Referat IV/3 was Obersturmbannfuhrer SCHREYEDER. This Section was connected with all matters dealing with espionage, cases of sabotage, and armed resistance.
4. S.S. Hauptsturmfuhrer KNOOP was amongst others employed under SCHREYEDER.

GIBBS states: -

" From a Service point of view, I was actually only concerned with (3) SCHREYEDER, and occasionally in connection with the constant friction, with (2) DEFFNER.

SCHREYEDER was a calm 'kriminalrat' of the good old school who did not show the usual S.S. disposition, even though he did wear S.S. uniform. In the case of SCHREYEDER, I was always quite certain that prisoners who came within the framework of his own personal jurisdiction were not unduly roughly treated. KNOOP, on the other hand, who came under his command, avoured more of the usual S.S. methods. The Leiter of III, DEFFNER (see (2) above) was rather a typical S.S. product. Barely at the age of 30 he had a powerful position which contrasted unpleasantly with his lack of experience of life generally. Any sort of co-operation, whether on a Service basis or any other form, was quite impossible for me with this man, and the Section mentioned at (1) above. "

For details and descriptions, see APPENDIX V.

Ast-Niederlande personnel, together with a note on the Funkbeobachtungs-stelle der Orpo (W/T intercept), as obtained from interrogations of both GIBBS and HUNTMANN is attached at APPENDIX III.

During the course of his employment with FAK 307, GIBBS came into contact with LINDMANN & KING KONG. Separate data, as supplied by both GIBBS and HUNTMANN on this man is attached at APPENDIX IV, and it is interesting to note the claim that LINDMANN was responsible for supplying advance information to the FAK about the Allied airborne landings in the Arnhem and Eindhoven areas.

Meantime, detailed interrogation is proceeding. As already pointed out, the dimensions of this case are extensive, and it is anticipated that some time must elapse before a complete report on the case can be made available.

APPENDIX II.

Ref: KRAUS, Freddy.
(Statement handed in by GISKES.)

In April or May 1941 I got to know KRAUS through Hptm. SCHADE of the Luftwaffe, who was known to me and came to Paris occasionally. If I remember rightly, the two men knew each other from their previous employment with the SIEMENS firm. In the course of a conversation with KRAUS, I got the impression that he had asked his friend to put him in touch with an officer of Abwehr III. KRAUS made rather confused statements about alleged espionage activities of one or two persons, who were in the habit of visiting the house of his fiancée, Daisy de BROGLIE, in Neuilly. At this, or a later conversation, he informed me that a certain Sonderführer, then living in Paris, who had the occasion to meet Mlle. de BROGLIE at parties, had rather coarsely enquired of her: "Are you now prepared to work for the German Abwehr or not?". The name of the Sonderführer was BERKENBERG-GOSSLER.

From this also rather muddled account by KRAUS, I came to the conclusion that there was something not in order, from an Abwehr point of view, with this Mlle. de BROGLIE, and that KRAUS had been sent to spy out the land and find out whether and to what extent anything was known to the Abwehr. I ordered KRAUS to ascertain precisely what was going on regarding espionage in the De BROGLIE circles. In order to protect his former fiancée, and present wife, KRAUS made further enquiries within the circle concerned.

The results were serious. It was absolutely clear that a certain circle of well-known personalities in Paris had organized a spy net, which collected and analysed considerable material. In the de BROGLIE house in Neuilly, meetings and the collecting and sifting of material was taking place. To what extent Mlle. de BROGLIE overlooked the great danger she was running in so doing was not clear. Nevertheless it was obvious that action would have to be taken rightaway if I was to get her out of the business, as I had already promised KRAUS I would do. In June or July 1941, amongst others, COURTOIS and Pierre d'HARCOURT were arrested in connection with the affair. In this connection there were later a few further arrests, but I do not remember the names as, shortly afterwards, I was transferred from Paris to the Hague, and my successor, Major FELL, continued to work on the case.

In the following months I had somewhat of a tussle with Ist Paris about keeping my promise to the effect that the arrest of Mlle. de BROGLIE would be prevented. I met KRAUS several times later on in Paris, on occasional visits I made there, and socially was friendly with him. There was, however, no more talk of espionage or the Abwehr. His wife knows me as Dr. GERHARDS and does not know that I had anything to do with the Abwehr or her case. As far as I am aware KRAUS was not kept au fait with the outcome of this espionage matter.

I have made the above report as far as I am able to recall the details, which took place four years ago. It is possible that I may have made mistakes about matters which are only of second-rate importance.

Stelle 'P' - Niederlande:

Stelle-P was the Dienststelle of Kapt. z. See Richard PROTZE. It was an independent unit directly under the command of Abt. III, section III-F, Berlin, but for administration matters it was attached to Ast-Niederlande. Its H.Q. were as follows:-

- 1941 - 42, Wassenaar near The Hague.
- 1943 Bieldhoven.
- 1944 in the area of Nywegen.

From September 1944 onwards the unit was incorporated within PAK 306, but from a technical working point of view was independent. Personnel of Stelle-P consisted only of Kapt. PROTZE @ GUKEL RICHARD, and an elderly lady who attended to his typing and ran the household. I do not know her name. She was generally called "Tante LENE". Stelle-P never was considered to have any importance from an Abwehr point of view. In the Abwehr it was regarded as a sinecure or "Bonbon" for the over 65 years old Kapt. PROTZE, who was still quite robust and a few good contacts.

PROTZE, as a retired officer, was already living in Holland in 1939. He was an old friend of Adml. CANARIS, from their cadet days, and it was said that he had been an instructing officer. Allegedly PROTZE is the man who had developed the German III F service from its inception.

Before 1939 he had worked for a number of years with Abt. III, Section III F, in Berlin. In spite of his age PROTZE was ambitious and was rather disappointed that he had not been made O.C. of Ast-Niederlande. He had little contact with officers of the Ast. When one did meet him occasionally he gave the impression of being a charming old gentleman with whom one could converse, but one never heard a word from him about his service work.

In the summer of 1944 when Ast-Niederlande was dissolved or taken over by the Sicherheitspolizei Stelle-P was ordered to work together with PAK 307, with H.Q. at that time in Brussels. This annexation, however, did not take place on account of the evacuation of Belgium and Stelle-P then became attached to PAK 306. I last saw Kapt. PROTZE in the spring of 1944 in Bieldhoven.

W/T intercept unit of the Orpo (Signalisi in oeverningen.
(Funkbeobachtungsstelle, or Fu-B-Stelle-Orpo) - Information given by GIBKES.

* Task of this unit was the tracing of, and listening to, enemy W/T traffic. Establishing, by listening, of W/T agents traffic, reception of two-way traffic, and determining the call-signs, and other traffic signals. The tracing of local enemy W/T agents by RDF methods. Arresting W/T agents in conjunction with the Sipo. The results of the above missions were reported to III/f for the purpose of analysis from an Abwehr point of view. In establishing W/T 'play' with the enemy, all technical data for the reception and establishment of traffic was procured, or dealt with, by Fu-B-Orpo, and the traffic of the agents concerned, or the official appointed to carry this out, was supervised by Fu-B-Orpo. The Fu-B-Stelle received the text of the W/T messages from the Stelle which was running the W/T 'play', i.e. III/f or the Sipo.

Between 1940-1943 Oberltnt der Orpo, HEINRICH, was the O.C., from 1943 onwards a Hptm ..... (name forgotten).

The Stelle had roughly 30 officials at its disposition, the greater part being W/T and W/T intercept specialists. In 1943, H.Q.s was transferred to Driebergen near Utrecht. In the autumn of 1944 a large portion of the technical material was lost in an air attack, near Zwolle, whilst it was in the process of being transferred to Northern Holland.

The unit was equipped with a fluctuating number of RDF cars. Generally speaking, however, there was only one at disposal. From 1942 onwards portable Halpeiler (short range RDF sets) were operated, which are said to have produced good results.

Results obtained in the local RFIing of enemy W/T operators varied considerably. Sometimes the fixing of enemy W/T bases succeeded surprisingly quickly, in other cases many months often elapsed, and there were cases when no results were achieved at all. As a non-technical man the reasons for this are not clear to me. During 1942-43, on the average, two to three active W/T agent sets were continually under observation. This figure increased gradually from the beginning of 1944 onwards.

I estimate that from the summer of 1943 until mid 1944 about 12 enemy agent transmitters in Holland were recognised, pin-pointed and captured through the purely technical means of the Fu-B-Stelle. "

APPENDIX IV

CASE OF LINDEMANN

Statement by GISMES

"At the end of 1943, ITIP - Lille, offered III F - Holland for employment, a Dutch national who was said to have worked very well in Lille as a V-Mann. The man in question was said to be completely blown in the Lille area and was to be found employment somewhere else. The man was taken over by III F Ast-Niederlande and was put at the disposition of Uffs. KUP. His name, and cover name, I can no longer recall to memory, but I would describe him as follows:-

About 1.60. m. tall, thin, pale complexion, dissipated appearance, about 30 years old, dark hair, dark eyes, piercing look and altogether rather a common original type.

I mistrusted the man very much and gave KUP orders to palm him off elsewhere at the first available opportunity. He had three fingers missing on one of his hands. He spoke French, German and Dutch and was knocking around Brussels in January 1944. In February 1944, he suddenly reported to KUP, that he had got to know a man, who for many years already had been working for the British Secret Service in Holland, Belgium and France. This individual would be prepared, he said, under certain circumstances to place himself at the disposal of the German Abwehr, but not the police. At the first meeting with this person, when Hpts. WURR and Uffs. KUP were present, he told them that for some years past he had been working for the British Secret Service. Moreover he said that his cover name in England was KING KING, and his real name Christian LINDEMANN, from Rotterdam, at that time without any fixed abode. He produced a pistol and a pile of false, or falsified, Ausweise and travel permits of all descriptions. The reason for his offer to work with the German Abwehr lay in the fact that his youngest brother had been condemned to death in Rotterdam. He had arranged for his brother to co-operate with a Dutch underground movement, which was actively concerned in assisting Allied airmen to escape. His brother had then been arrested and sentenced and he had to save him.

An examination of LINDEMANN'S story proved the correctness of the statements concerning his brother. The immediate release and pardoning of his brother was thereupon put to him as the prospect. (As far as I got to know the brother was set free in the summer of 1944 and thereafter lived with a relation in Germany).

LINDEMANN, who was given the cover name CC, then made, in March 1944, comprehensive statements about persons and contacts in the British, Dutch and Belgian Secret Services in the respective countries, which mainly referred to passcar nets and organizations connected with escape routes. The case was principally attended to by Hpts. WURR. It transpired that a portion of the persons signalled by LINDEMANN were already known to other German Abwehrstellen. Against the majority of the persons signalled there was not sufficient evidence to permit immediate intervention. Others had already taken to flight, disappeared or were already under arrest. I do not know the names or the numbers involved, nor do I know whether, on account of these arrests, proceedings were taken.

The subsequent activities of LINDEMANN comprised principally three phases:-

1. Contacting Dutch sabotage groups.
2. Contacting the Belgian underground army.
3. Contact with the English Secret Service after the Occupation of Belgium.

With regard to 1. LINDEMANNS made contact, through connections in Amsterdam, with a group of agents who a short time before had parachuted into the Northern Dutch Province - 3 men roughly about April 1944. On the basis of statements made by LINDEMANNS, the Sipo arrested the group and attempted, without any co-operation with the Abwehr, to set up W/T traffic with England. The attempt, however, was quickly spotted in England. I cannot relate any more about this case and its extent, etc. as at that time, on account of the existing mistrust of Sipostellen towards FAKS and PAFs, and especially towards my FAK, no reports of any description whatsoever were given to me. Saboteur films reports in small numbers came through only when high military authorities demanded to be briefed, but then they were months old and no one any longer laid any value on them.

On the basis of statements made by LINDEMANNS, two agents were caught in Rotterdam, who had already been arrested before in connection with the HORDFOL affair, but who had later escaped from the HARKER camp. As far as I remember one of these was RIETSCHOTEN. They were carrying important material in the form of films and were to have set out for England from Zealand.

During the course of a raid on Rotterdam, LINDEMANNS was shot at and arrested by the Sipo, in May 1944 (?). He was "kidnaped" from the prison hospital 14 days later by Uffa. KUP. The Dutch wardens assumed that he had been set free by Dutch Resistance circles.

In regard to 2:

Contacting the Belgian underground army.

LINDEMANNS had many and excellent connections with the local regional leaders of the Belgian Resistance Movement. After his "flight" from Holland I gave orders that he would steer a course which would enable him to report about plans of the Belgian Resistance movement in general terms and the operations planned by Allied Supreme H.Q. At the start, and during the progress, of the Allied invasion of France such uneasiness was apparent and widespread at German Military H.Q.s in the West concerning the attitude, bearing, fighting ability and operations planned for the Resistance armies in France and Belgium. In this respect the FAKs received strictest orders to clarify and appreciate the situation. In order to carry out his task and to give LINDEMANNS the necessary confidence vis-a-vis his Resistance contacts the arresting of many Belgians, known to be participating actively, was waived. The reports provided by LINDEMANNS, particularly towards the end of August 1944, were regarded by the competent authorities as good.

In regard to 3:

Contact with the enemy Secret Service after the occupation of Brussels.

During the last few days of August 1944, LINDEMANNS instructions in this connection were to offer his services after the occupation of Brussels, in order to clarify the intentions of further enemy agent operations in Holland and Germany. He received orders to report to 1c of the nearest division, or army, after crossing the lines and to get himself passed on to the FAK or one of the PATA. About the 20th September, 1944, I received a report from PAT 365, H.Q.s Driebergen-Utrecht, to the effect that LINDEMANNS had been there, after having previously reported to the Ic of Fallschirm AOK I in Breda. Next day LINDEMANNS was slipped back through the lines at Eindhoven. My H.Q.s at that time was at Bornheim-Bonn. PAT 365 no longer came under my command - all communications were severed by the English attack on Arnheim. Thus it was only weeks later that I was able to receive incomplete reports concerning the contents of his reports. Roughly speaking these reports contained essentially the following:-

Reckon with an English attack, direction Eindhoven, timed for Sunday. Airborne troops, in large numbers, are in readiness to start.

There followed then a few unimportant reports about the situation in Belgium, politics and food situation.

In February 1945, I received a W/T message from FAK 306 which was operating in the Dutch area. According to this at the beginning of February 1945 an enemy W/T agent was arrested in Amsterdam, and a W/T message from his English control was secured and deciphered. The message dated back to end of November 1944 and read somewhat as follows:-

Warning, advise all friends, Christian LINDEMANNS is a traitor. He is in Allied hands.

From this it was clear that LINDEMANNS was blown, and his fate had caught him up. As regards the cause of his being unmasked I can only make conjectures and can make no definite statement.

According to what I heard from Holland, by chance, through Trupp 365 at the beginning of November 1944, the former V-man of III F - Lille mentioned at the beginning of my report, through whose intermediary LINDEMANNS came in touch with the Abwehr, was sent on a line crossing operation and did not return. If he was caught it is possible that LINDEMANNS was betrayed by this man's statements."

(+) Note:

CISKE has been asked to clarify this sentence. He states, however, that he is unaware as to whether the message was intercepted by the HONOH unit and deciphered, or whether the ciphered message was found in the arrested W/T operator and then deciphered with his assistance.

APPENDIX IV (contd.)

Information obtained from HUNTEMANN on LINDEMANN

On the 15th September, 1944, the Friday before the Arnheim landing, HUNTEMANN was with KISEWETTER in his office at Driebergen; at about 4.30 p.m. the telephone rang and HUNTEMANN heard KISEWETTER mention "CC" and say he knew nothing about him. HUNTEMANN, knowing of "CC" as GISKES' best agent, interrupted and informed KISEWETTER of this. KISEWETTER, who, it appeared, was speaking to Ast-Hilversum, accordingly told them to send "CC" at once to Driebergen, and he was brought immediately by car. Before he arrived, HUNTEMANN had left and so did not see him at this time. Before he went, however, KISEWETTER told him that "CC" had important information and had asked for GISKES, who was then at Dersdorp bei Bonn.

On the Saturday, 16th September, HUNTEMANN saw "CC" (LINDEMANN) drive off at about 12 noon in a car belonging to PAT.365, on his way to Eindhoven. HUNTEMANN understood that he intended to cross the lines near Eindhoven and to return in about a week's time. LINDEMANN had been in Eindhoven prior to going to Hilversum (whence he had come to Driebergen) and had there been in touch with two employees of PHILIPS, with whom he was to get in touch again.

On the same day, 16th September, HUNTEMANN was told by KISEWETTER that LINDEMANN had brought information about an Allied air-borne action which was expected shortly in the Maenster/Duelmen area, but did not mention Arnheim.

This was all that HUNTEMANN knew at the actual time of the Arnheim landing. Later, in February 1945, GISKES spoke to him of LINDEMANN, saying he was afraid he was dead and had probably been betrayed by NELIS (a minor agent with whom LINDEMANN had worked). He spoke very highly of LINDEMANN, calling him his best agent and saying that, compared with him, RIDDERHOP was very small fry. He then told HUNTEMANN that LINDEMANN had given him the information about the Arnheim landing; GISKES had apparently been very annoyed that he was not informed when LINDEMANN came from Hilversum to Driebergen as GISKES would have come any distance to obtain information from him. It was HUNTEMANN's opinion that GISKES thought very highly indeed of LINDEMANN.

HUNTEMANN then told how GISKES first got in touch with LINDEMANN: At the beginning of 1944, KUP was told by an agent named NELIS that he knew of a "big man", an "English agent", who had a brother who had been arrested by the S.D. and was in prison in Scheveningen. This man was willing to work for the Abwehr if his brother was released. The release was arranged by SCHREIDER and the brother (whose name HUNTEMANN did not know) went to work in Rotterdam. So far as HUNTEMANN knows, he never worked for the G.I.S. but dealt in black market transactions and, in this connection, kept in close touch with KUP, who used to go and visit him frequently at Rotterdam.

The agent, who was known as "CC", then started work for GISKES and was a great success. He was run entirely by GISKES through KUP and his work was kept absolutely secret.

WURR also spoke to HUNTEMANN of LINDEMANN as a very important man.

Later, in 1945, HUNTEMANN heard "CC" referred to as KING KONG.

Information obtained from HUNTEMANN on LINDEMANN (contd.)

The only time HUNTEMANN had any personal contact with LINDEMANN was at the end of August 1944 (probably the 29th) when he went from Brussels to Lille with him. LINDEMANN was to return to Brussels the same day. Very little conversation took place between the two men, as HUNTEMANN had been told by GISKES that he did not want them to become intimate. The only matters discussed were the point where HUNTEMANN was to be dropped and what was to be done in the event of their being stopped. If they were stopped by the Germans, HUNTEMANN was to do the talking; if by members of the Resistance, LINDEMANN would deal with the matter, as he knew the password (at this time it was "Vive la Belgique, la Belgique liberee"). HUNTEMANN did not know how LINDEMANN knew this.

HUNTEMANN did not know of LINDEMANN crossing the lines more than once, nor had he heard that LINDEMANN delivered crystals to W/T agents.

He did not know whether LINDEMANN had been instructed to act as stay-behind agent in Brussels, but KIESEWETTER told him that LINDEMANN had told him (KIESEWETTER) that he went to the Hotel Metropole where on the 4th floor was a W/T station. HUNTEMANN did not know whether he had been told to do this, but he certainly stayed in Brussels.

Additional Information given by HUNTEMANN on LINDEMANN

HUNTEMANN was seen in his cell on 2.6.45. and stated that on the Saturday in question KIESEWETTER told him that "CC" had got the information about the air-borne landing at the Hotel Metropole in Brussels. HUNTEMANN does not know how. The area where the landing was to take place was said by KIESEWETTER to be in Westphalia, in a triangle bounded by Muenster, Duelsen and another town of which HUNTEMANN does not know the name.

Later, in February 1945, GISKES told HUNTEMANN that "CC" had actually blown the Arnhem operation.

TOP SECRET & PERSONAL

RAW/KV/3265

4th June, 1945.

Dear Wilson,

I must apologise for being somewhat dilatory in writing to inform you of the call which was paid upon me by Jack Hughs and Speyer from Camp 020; I am afraid that ever since they were here I have been rushed off my feet, and had no time to commit myself to paper.

When Hugs and Speyer came, I was able to tell them a little about the sort of thing they might expect during the interrogation of GISKES and HUNTERMANN, but this, however, could only be a brief summary. More importantly I think, I have furnished them with a complete report of the S.O.E. operations in Holland with which these two Germans were concerned. This report gives every detail of agents' identities, missions, dropping bodies etc., etc., and I have also supplied them with the complete set of traffic for which HUNTERMANN and GISKES were jointly responsible. To these I am shortly going to add an appreciation of codes, conventions etc., which were in use at the time; this will be of a fairly non-technical nature, and is being specially written for the purpose by our Signal Directorate. I have also arranged that 020 can refer to me at any time when they may have a query to raise, and Jack Hughs has in fact rung me up this evening to ask how our agents were treated when they were in the prison at Haasn.

I hope that these arrangements will meet with your approval, and feel that really this is the only way of getting the maximum out of these characters, although of course it will mean a considerable amount of work for Hugs and Speyer, which, however, they do not seem to mind.

Gerhard Gottfried Eduard HUNDEMANN.

Gerhard Gottfried Eduard HUNDEMANN gave himself up to American forces in April and was brought to Camp 020 on the 24th May.

HUNDEMANN worked in Censorship in Berlin as a colonial specialist at the outbreak of war and subsequently transferred to a similar job in Copenhagen. When he was about to be inducted into the German Army he got an introduction to GISES (above mentioned) and in December 1941 joined GISES in East Niederlande. From then on he was most active in running penetration cases under GISES, particularly dealing with the W/T traffic of agents of SOE who had been turned round. In connection with one group alone a total of 42 agents were taken into custody during a year and a half and at the height of his success 13 "Allied" W/T sets were being operated by the Abwehr in various parts of Holland.

The control was done most successfully. Not only was a complete watch kept on Resistance activities but escape routes were penetrated, misleading information was supplied in answer to espionage instructions, and sabotage incidents were staged, including the blowing up of an old elevator in the harbour of Rotterdam.

When GISES formed FAK 307 he took HUNDEMANN with him.

HUNDEMANN has already supplied in the Field a mass of accurate and valuable information about the activities of East Niederlande and FAK 307 and members and agents of these units. He has been and is continuing to be extremely co-operative and like GISES is known to have done all he could to ensure that captured Allied agents were treated in a humane manner. From these two internees a complete picture is being built up of enemy counter espionage activities in Holland and of the subsequent activities of FAK 307 and its Trappen. From preliminary statements so far made by these two it seems likely that fresh light will be thrown on the case of Carl LINDEMANS.
